

Bar-B-Cutie Voted Best Barbecue Third Year in a Row in Nashville's "Toast of Music City" Awards

The World's Best Barbecue Since 1950® sweeps 3 categories including Best Barbecue, Best Lunch and Most Family Friendly Restaurant

Brentwood, TN, July 26, 2010 – Nashville, TN has long been known for its great food and unique restaurants so when Nashville-based newspaper The Tennessean holds its yearly reader's choice awards, "Toast of Music City", it's a good bet that the Food category is one of the most hotly-contested categories.

In this year's contest, Bar-B-Cutie Restaurant was the only business among all nominated entries to win three first place awards. Bar-B-Cutie won first place for Best Barbecue, first place for Best Lunch and first place for Most Family Friendly Restaurant.

Bar-B-Cutie President and CEO Ronnie McFarland attended the awards gala and commented, "We are so grateful to have been recognized by the people of Nashville and beyond in such an overwhelming way. For 60 years, Bar-B-Cutie food has been a Nashville tradition. We are always striving to be good neighbors in the community and to provide families with terrific meals. I want to personally thank all of our loyal customers that voted for us and The Tennessean for putting on such a great promotion."

About Bar-B-Cutie: Bar-B-Cutie has had a HOT 2010 summer indeed! Recently, Bar-B-Cutie Restaurant was featured on the Rachel Ray show, Where'd You Get that Name? . Three weeks ago, clips of Bar-B-Cutie employees were seen in Alan Jackson's new video, Hard Hat and Hammer. Last week, the commitment for a third Bar-B-Cutie in Spain was announced.
